A Few Words to the Primary Associations of Davis County.

A FAIR AT FARMINGTON.

About two years ago an address was rinted concerning a fair which was held the following September.

not come up to our expectations in all things. Therefore, we wish to try again, and have decided to hold a fair in Farmington in the latter part of September,

We wish, if possible, to awaken an interest throughout the primary associations of Davis stake, give a word of encourageof Davis stake, give a word of encourage-ment to those who contributed before, and kindly ask them to assist with their labor and means, so as to make the coming fair far exceed the other one. In some of the departments this, perhaps, could not be done, as the mechanism of the boys was very good, also much of the work done by little girls was braiseworthy. Yet of some things which we thought of the most im-portance there was but very little on exhibi-tion, viz: good mending and darning by little girls, also specimens of writing, map drawtion, viz: good mending and darning by little girls, also specimens of writing, map drawing, and all kinds of drawing with the pencil or pen, by both boys and girls. We solicit the aid of school teachers in this branch. A greater display of vegatables would be appreciated. There are quite a number of little farmers in our midst, and we hope they will pay heed to this notice in time to have a small piece of ground laid out for them to cultivate. Those who have soil suitable can raise. this notice, in time to have a small piece of ground laid out for them to cultivate. Those who have soil suitable, can raise white beans; then after the exhibition they can donate a few quarts to their primary association; inasmuch as we are saving up beans to be used with the wheat stored by the Relief societies, when called for. From one of our associations, we heard that their land was not good to raise beans, so the president had the children bring in a few quarts of wheat, which she exchanged for beans. Some beautiful pieces of home made carpet and rugs were on exhibition at the last fair; also balls of carpet-rags sewed by little boys. Particular attention will be taken of work done by small children, if it is nothing more than a handkerchief hemmed, or a block of patchwork; those who are old enough can make bread, butter, cakes, etc., cultivate flowers, then bring in a good supply to ornament the room. Most of this labor devolves upon the mothers, as they spend much time in teaching their little ones; but it will be like bread cast upon the water, after many days it will return. If ones; but it will be like bread cast upon the water, after many days it will return. If necessary there will be a department for young men and young women; giving them a chance to display their ingenuity. Builders and mechanics are reselled; ers and mechanics are needed in our community. If we are to be a self-supporting people, let us commence in earnest; im-prove on the talents given us, and by en-couragement bring what genius there is in the young people to light. There will be prizes given to those who can make a model prizes given to those who can make a model threshing muchine, hay-rake, plow, shovel, hoe, wagon; in fact, any useful article of machinery or furniture. The prize will be in something of its kind; for instance, to the mechanic will be given some kind of tool; to the little girl who hems patches or pieces quilted, will be given something to work with or make up. At a meeting held last fall, Sister Zina Young advised the primary presidents to encourage marthal musle. This we are in favor of. We are also in favor of learning any kind of music, and now is the time to make ready and practice up, so as to be on hand feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregukind of music, and now is the time to make ready and practice up, so as to be on hand with a tune for the fair. We realize that our success depends in a great measure upon the interest taken by the parents, and we kindly ask them to assist us. At the inst fair some of the brethren gave prizes on the best mending, darning and produce. We hope that many others will give encouragement in a substantial way. Our donations to the hospital were also pretty fair, and may we do as well again, if not better. The presidents can call at the hospital and get their empty bottles, so as to have them ready for illing when the fruit comes on. If any one wishes to make certain articles to for sale they can do so, and either have the proceeds themselves or donate it to buy prizes. We hope there will be some things on exhibition worth forwarding to the territorial fair in Salt Lake city.

The primary conference, which was to have been held in Kaysville, April 26, was put off on account of diphtheria in Farmington. We are happy to say that the disease has left us entirely, but sorry to hear that two or three cases have made I their appearance in Kaysville. Therefore, we do not know when the conference will convene. Repectfully.

THE POWER OF A PLUGGED NICKEL

A Whole Carload Fascinated and Embar rassed by an Outlawed Coin. A tall man with a dark mustache and imperial got into a south bound Broadway car at Twenty-second street the other day and took a seat about midway up the car. When the conductor came for his fare the man fished a nickel from his pocket. The conductor looked at the This fair was a success, although it did coin sharply and passed it back again. "What's the matter?" asked the man. "It's plugged," said the conductor.

The man put a pair of eyeglasses on his nose and critically surveyed the nickel. He found that the conductor one back into his pocket when he noticed that every one in the car was looking at him. He turned very red, hesitated, and finally dropped the nickel slyly on the floor. Every one saw him do it, but every one tried to appear as if he didn't notice it. The nickel lay on the floor in plain sight, but no one would look at it. All seemed to think that they would appear as if they coveted it if they did. New Songs. Every one seemed quite uncomfortable. Two or three men tried to read, but they couldn't concentrate their attention on their newspapers. The conductor passed over the nickel once or twice, and tried not to notice it.

At Fourteenth street a man got in and vas about to sit down, when he espied the nickel. He picked it up and tried to hand it to an old gentleman with a red face and a white mustache, saying, "You dropped this, sir."

"No, I didn't," said the old gentleman with a laugh. Then everybody laughed, as if greatly relieved. The man who had picked up the nickel looked closely at it, turned bright crimson and dropped it again. Everybody saw him, but whichever way he looked he saw only averted faces. The people would glance slyly at him from the corners of their eyes, and then look away again very quickly. Again no one looked at the nickel, although every man there knew to a nicety just where it lay. It stayed in the same place on the floor until the car stopped just above Chambers street. Here the conductor told the passengers to take the next car, as that one was going to switch off and go up town again. As they left the car all the passengers took a last glance at the plugged nickel, but no one touched it. It started up town again, and all the passengers went down town with that nickel weighing heavily
